Did You Know ... ? Gumbo is the Official Dish of Louisiana!

The name gumbo comes from the West African word for okra, implying that gumbo was originally made with okra. Today's gumbo consists primarily of locally harvested meats or seafood simmered in a base of roux and spices. The addition of filé (dried, ground sassafras leaves) as a thickener and flavor enhancer was a contribution of the Choctaws and, possibly, other local tribes.

Originating in Breaux Bridge, the "Crawfish Capital of the World," crawfish étouffée is probably one of the most requested and beloved dishes of Cajun cuisine. Etouffée is a French word meaning "smothered," here referring to the method of cooking--"smothering" it in a rich sauce with onions, bell pepper, and celery (the "Holy Trinity" of Cajun cooking). The majority of culinary experts will agree that an authentic Cajun étouffée does not contain tomatoes--unless it is prepared in the Creole style!

Official Sandwich of Louisiana

In 1929 in New Orleans during a four-month strike against the streetcar company, brothers Benny and Clovis Martin, former streetcar conductors, fed their (penniless and hungry) former colleagues free sandwiches from their restaurant, always served on New Orleans French bread. Whenever a striker was spotted, a Martin's worker would shout, "Here comes another po' boy!" The nickname quickly became synonymous with Louisiana's favorite sandwich, the ever-popular po-boy.

A favorite dish among New Orleans Creole families even before the turn of the 20th century, a large pot of red (kidney) beans simmered for hours on the stove every Monday (traditionally laundry day) when the women responsible for providing the household with clean clothes for the week had little time for preparing a complicated meal. It is served over freshly cooked rice, creating a warm and filling meal that has never lost its universal appeal.
